

JONALYN BROWN

REGIONAL VICE PRESIDENT

CONSONUS HEALTHCARE—REHAB

Jonalyn's health care career started in leadership and program development —skills that immediately came in handy ten years later in her first position with Consonus. As a rehab director in Coos Bay, Ore., she put together a successful stroke and swallowing program, along with a community-based stroke group.

Quickly embracing the Consonus culture, she accepted a position as Area Director, leading her team to outstanding results. Now she's responsible for all rehab operations in Oregon, Washington and California, and finds the greatest reward in helping develop dynamic and innovative rehab managers who empower their staff.

Jonalyn holds a Master's degree in speech language pathology from Portland State University, and has special expertise in lean management and leadership development. She and her husband have four children, and spend most free moments supporting them in a plethora of activities.
